

Riding the storm

The conference by the professionals for the professionals

PYNDA Conference
26th April 2012
at the IMO London

PROBABLY THE BEST SHIPPING CONFERENCE IN 2012

Q: How often do you hear of a not-for-profit shipping conference run by shipping professionals and not conference organisers? A: Not very. That's right. So this one's different right from the start.

We promise you no profit-seeking conference organisers and no boring sales pitches dressed up as speeches. We offer the opportunity to spend a day among fellow professionals and colleagues from all parts of the industry, a chance to contribute and to hear some of the leading figures in our industry.

26th April at the IMO in London

Tickets have just gone on sale. As a not-for-profit event they're only £250 so are likely to sell out fast. It's the 40th Anniversary of PYNDA, the Plymouth Nautical Degree Association. Space is limited to 250 people.

Evening event

An art exhibition and sale of the maritime photography of Claudiu and Delta Muntean in aid of the Mission to Seafarers.
